

Press

Release

Ms. Denise Mosley has officially disclosed the names of the authors whose contracts are being terminated by Cacoethes Publishing House. In a closed interview she stated

“I think this move is beneficial for both parties. As a small company, we are unable to meet some of the unrealistic expectations of many of these people. We wish them luck with their future endeavors. However, at this time we are uninterested in continuing a working relationship with them.”

The current list consists of the following authors:

Dahlia Rose, author of When Angels Fall
Leslie Martin, Author of Forgotten Tomorrows, Crazy Todays
Bill Johanessen, Author of Roger Reborn
William Buster, Author of Broken Cross
Lisa Burke, Author of The Invisible Visitor

This is the start of many changes for the company, which officially opened its doors November 15, 2007. Ms. Mosley plans to make another round of cuts during the spring.

“I think it’s good to evaluate our working relationships and effect the necessary changes.”

When questioned regarding the Blogs / Statements posted online regarding the stability of the company and other issues Ms. Mosley stated,

“I do not feed into idle gossip or slander. Nothing on those sites is accurate except for my phone number...the parties who participated in those vicious, libelous chats will be dealt with via our legal representatives. If I place my focus on those issues instead of the tasks ahead of our company, then I’m not doing my job.”

For more information regarding this issue, please contact Janice Smith, Author Liaison at 253-536-3747. A full copy of Denise Mosley’s interview will be posted in February’s edition of Lotic Magazine, which is available in print and e-format.